

Interest Is Shown Assembly Programs

First Entertainment Is Presented by Clubs—Music Day Is Observed Wednesday

The large crowd of students and faculty members, who gathered at Assembly Monday, December 3, was only the first indication of the interest which is coming to be manifested in this city. Each of the Assemblies the past week have been sponsored by some organization of the university and have drawn exceptionally fine crowds.

Kappas Give Program

The first Assembly of the week was under the direction of the Kappa Psi Delta sorority which presented a varied program of music and readings. Miss Elizabeth Curtis, accompanied by Marie Pierce, entertained the gathering with the vocal number, "Song of the Morn." Selections from Shakespeare's immortal comedy, "The Taming of the Shrew," were read by Mrs. J. E. Anderson, dramatic director of the Omaha Woman's Club. She responded to the repeated applause with "Betty at the Baseball Game."

On Wednesday, Music Day was observed, with community singing led by Professor Logan. "My Sunshine," "Soldiers Chorus from Faust," "The Bulldog on the Bank," and numerous rounds, were among the numbers which both the students and faculty enjoyed.

Is Man A Machine?

Aviation Contest Will Be Held

Four-Year Scholarship For Winner of Writing Contest

To interest more college students in aviation, the Alexander Aircraft Company at Colorado Springs offers a new Alexander Eaglerock Airplane or a complete University Course in aeronautics for the best series of four short monthly articles on aviation from January 1 to May 1, 1929, written by undergraduate college students.

Gives Four Year Scholarship

The winner will be awarded a 4-year scholarship in a leading aeronautical engineering school, or in a school of business administration where he can get an aeronautical background. Competing students who receive undergraduate degrees June 1 may win a graduate scholarship in a technical school of aeronautics, leading to a master or a professional degree. As an alternative award, the winner may receive a completely equipped Eaglerock. Articles of superior merit but below winning quality will win their writers ten hour flying courses. The awards will be made June 1.

The papers, technical or non-technical and four hundred to six hundred words in length, must be submitted to the Committee on Awards on the first of each month from January 1 to May 1. Suggested subjects include, "Future Aircraft Development," "Flying for Recreation," "Commercial Possibilities in Aviation," "The Airplane as a Future Decontaminator of Cities," etc. Candidates will be judged 50 percent on content of their articles, and 10 percent on their qualifications to do justice to the scholarship. The winner if he qualifies, will be employed in the engineering or some other department of the Alexander Aircraft factory. The best contribution each month will be published in the Alexander Aeronautics, a magazine with 32,000 circulation among pilots, business executives, and others interested in flying.

Insurance School Will Open Jan. 8

The Insurance school will open January 8 at the College of Commerce. Forty-eight have already enrolled, and many more are expected. A full quota of sixty will probably be reached.

The faculty has been selected for both life and fire-casualty insurance courses. Ernest Whitlock, general agent of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Company, will be in charge of the life insurance courses. He will be assisted by Will Noble, general agent of the New England Life Insurance Co., and C. L. Hart, agency manager of the Equitable Life Insurance Co. Those who will instruct in fire and indemnity insurance are Lewis Thoelecker, chief agent of the National Security Fire Insurance Company, and Edward Hefler, casualty agent of Martin Brothers.

Drama Club Gives Successful Production

Ellen Anne Slader and Fred Peirce Are Stars in Play

"White Collars," the play which was given by the dramatic department of the University of Omaha last Saturday evening at North High School auditorium, was one of exceptional merit and was a great credit to both the department and the university.

The entire cast of the play carried their roles well and united to make the play a rousing success. Ellen Anne Slader, in the role of Joan Thayer, daughter of the middle-class family who marries an extremely wealthy man, was both convincing and sincere. Her performance throughout showed remarkable ability.

Fred Peirce, as William Van Loon, was a compelling verisimilar. The scenes that the two lovers played together had the grace, charm, and simplicity of a real honeymoon. Miss Natalie Dale, playing the flapper sister, flapped her characteristic way throughout the whole situation with genuine ability.

Harold Glass, carrying the role of Henry Thayer, was completely at ease and full of the spirit of the plot. He brought out, with excellent sincerity, the part which he had to play.

Our New Hope

Student Body Agrees To Pay Annual Fee

Incidental Fee for Next Semester Will Be Increased; Vote 117 to 17

By an overwhelming vote of 117 to 17, the students of the University of Omaha voted to add ten dollars to the incidental fee to make the 1929 annual possible. Election was held in Assembly, Wednesday, November 29. The Student Council was in charge.

Don Butler, president of the Council, explained that last year's annual cost $1877.78 of which $800 was covered by incidental fees and $300 by advertising. The deficit was paid by the school. This year, three hundred and two students must pay an additional incidental fee of four dollars or no annual will be produced.

Dorothy Manger pointed out the advantage of having an annual and Leah Daubenheyer told of its advertising value to the school.

College of Commerce Elects New Officers

At the last monthly election of officers of the Commercial club, Bud Hall, popular and active member of the club, was elected president. In so doing, he defeated Byron Hewlett and Leo Marks.

As vice-president, the club now boasts Don Sellner, the candidate who had the active and vehement support of Mr. A. J. Dunlap. John Weber and Elizabeth Chase hold the offices of secretary and of treasurer. Mr. Weber is the first masculine secretary the club has had for the last year and a half.

Kuhn Is Sponsor Of $500 Contest

Professor Albert Kuhn is sponsoring essays on "Why I Should Vote" which are to be written by students of this university. The best selected will be entered in the national contest conducted by the Department of American Citizenship and prizes amounting to $400 are offered. These essays are required in the history courses. They are one thousand words in length. The contest closes December 15 and the winners will be announced sometime before June, 1929.

Vartanian Leads Critical Discussion

Ethics Class Sponsors Talk on Question "Is Man a Machine?"

Dr. V. H. Vartanian, head of the Religious Education department of the U. of O., recently gave a critical discussion of the Darrow-Cohn debate on the question "Is Man a Machine?" He discussed the debate from an ethical standpoint. His Ethics class sponsored the discussion which about one hundred and eighty students, including some entire classes attended.

Divides Main Issue

Dr. Vartanian first summarized the debate for those who had not heard it, dividing the main issues into three conflicting points—Man is a machine and Man is not a machine. What is a machine? What is personality? Where did man come from? Where did Personality come from?

Mr. Darrow contended that a machine is a contrivance which transforms one kind of energy into another. Food which is taken in transforms itself into energy.

Rabbi Cohn said that one has to operate a machine. He said, "There is no distraction between a mechanism and an organism, according to Darrow." Dr. Vartanian inserted the statement that there is not one renowned philosopher today who believes in the mechanistic theory.

Rabbi Cohn said that man is not a machine but that he is a conscious being. He said that the first three chapters in Genesis do not tell the whole story of creation but only explain Man's relation to this creation.

Dr. Vartanian then gave one of his vivid illustrations, saying, "Science can tell that if a child climbs out of a third story window, by the law of gravitation, he will fall to the ground. Moreover, it can measure how fast the fall will be, and the manner in which he will fall; but these measurements will not help those who (Continued on Page 3)

DEBATE CASE STUDIED

At the Law School last Wednesday night, December 6, seven students struggled with the intricacies of working out a debate case. First the contestants of the affirmative were written down; these were grouped, and the thoughts of each were presented. The case was then completely outlined in a rudimentary form.

On Friday a similar plan was carried out in order to construct the negative case.

Students From Nine States Attend U. of O.

"That's where the tall corn grows," sing the 37 students of the University of Omaha who hail from the state of Iowa. A recent summary of the out of town students enrolled at the University of Omaha for the first semester shows that number to be 85. Of this group, 63 are enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences and 22 in the College of Commerce and Finance.

Out-state Nebraska takes second place with 19 students. The 37 from Iowa are made up of 23 from Council Bluffs and 14 from other parts of the state. Illinois, Colorado, California, Wyoming, South Dakota, Kansas and Indiana each have one representative here. All together nine states have students at the University of Omaha this year.

Talented Musician Coming To U. of O.

Will Take Students for Second Semester in Cello and Violin

The University of Omaha Conservatory of Music announces the addition to its faculty of Bogdan Schlanta, violin instructor, who comes here with a broad music education.

He is a graduate in violin, holding the violinist's artist diploma from W. G. Butler, Doctor of Music, of New York University. Mr. Schlanta also took work at that university from P. Stoying and Dr. Hollis Dann, nationally known musicians. He received his Bachelor of Science in Music from the Mansfield State College, Mansfield, Pa., where he also earned his Public School Music Supervisor's Certificate.

President E. W. Emery of the local university worked with Professor Schlanta at York College for two years, where the violin instructor was head of the Department of Music, Director of the York Symphony Orchestra, and Band Director. Dr. Emery speaks nothing but praise for the violinist, both personally and musically.

In a recent letter to Professor Noel J. Logan, Director of the U. of O. Conservatory of Music, Mr. Schlanta states that it should be the aim of the mid-western section to centralize all the mid-western music at Omaha, and he calls the U. of O. "an open door" in music.

Bogdan Schlanta is a Russian musician whose father was a great leader of Russian affairs, being the first Russian layman to go into the Russian Church Council and was before his death President of the largest Russian Orthodox Society in America.

A group of students is highly anticipating studying instrumental work under Professor Schlanta. He will arrive at the university on January 10 to line up his work for the second semester, and anyone planning to study with him is urged to enroll at the office of the Conservatory of Music now, so that he may be certain to secure a place on his schedule. Professor Schlanta will instruct not only in violin, but also in cello and any wind instrument.

Yale University Course Presented

Wednesday evening, December 6, the third of the series of moving picture lectures on American History was held. About eight students are taking this course which offers one hour's credit in history.

These facts are presented under the supervision of the history experts at Yale University, and are being given at colleges throughout the country. Says Professor Kuhn, "These pictures are remarkably well planned to represent the period in which the episode took place. In all respects, they are well worth the time that will be spent in viewing them."

Season Schedule Of Debate Is Completed

Squad Will Journey to Iowa; Conference Planned—Meet Dana on January 28

Debate prospects at the University of Omaha this year are encouraging, according to Professor F. K. Guilfoill, debate coach. The schedule for this season has been planned and some interesting debates are promised.

The question for debate this year is "Resolved that the present jury system of the United States should be abolished."

Will Practice Dana

On January 28, the Omaha debate team will meet Dana and debate both sides of the question. It is not to be a conference debate but merely for practice, which will be of a benefit to both sides. On February 4, Omaha will take the negative side of the question against the affirmative side, which will be upheld by Western Union College of La Mars, Ia.

The Maryville State Teacher's college will journey to Omaha on March 15, to deny the question while Omaha will have the affirmative side.

April 2 to 5, will mark a trip for Omaha into Iowa, where Grinnell, Penn College, and Des Moines will receive opposition. Conference duels for the coming season are as follows:

Feb. 8—Doane—Negative team travels.

Feb. 21—Cotner—Same.

March 1—Kearney—Same.

March 6—Midland—Affirmative team travels.

This series is sponsored by the Nebraska National Pi Kappa Delta Honorary Forensic Society.

Six New Candidates Out

To date the squad has completed preliminary constructive arguments. The College of Liberal Arts has offered only one new candidate for the team and that is June Pickard, Freshman. The Law College has given five new members, namely Bruce Baker, W. E. Schroeder, R. B. Zalkin, Allen Cohen, and Dave Fishman. Last year men out for debating are Ed. Hogle, Don Butler, Richard Dunham, and Helena Gebuhr.

Another practice debate will be held tonight at the Law College at the usual hour, 8 o'clock.

Faculty Challenges Junior-Senior Team

University Stars Will Display Their Talents at Game

Everybody mark tomorrow with a big red mark, for it's going to be one red-letter day. And why? Just this. The combined junior and senior basketball team, winner of the inter-class tournament, will meet an all star team composed of the men faculty members.

While the junior-senior team boasts such players as Mallinson, Barber, Jensen, Frather, Hutchinson, and Van Dyke, and believe their chances good, the faculty members have many staunch supporters. And why not with Messrs. Hamner, Rasmussen, Bradfield, Hubbs, and Dr. Emery, on the regular team and such capable substitutes as Mr. Mayo, Dean James, Dean Dunlap, and Mr. Logan.

The admission to this super-spectacle is only 25 cents, and the money thus gained will be spent in buying basketballs to be used during the season by the girls' and boys' teams.

The conditions in charge had that they have arranged a very unusual, unique, and spectacular entertainment in this game, and this is one of the reasons that this game is not on the regular basketball schedule.

PRELIMINARY LECTURES

Dr. H. B. Hallmark delivered the first of a series of lectures in the Yale Moving Picture Lecture Series on American History. The lecture was given at the University of Omaha on Wednesday, December 6, at 8 o'clock. The lecture was well attended and the audience was very interested.

WILL THIS BE TRUE?

The Public Speaking classes have recently given highly imaginary speeches supposed to take place at a banquet of the University of Omaha alumni about twenty-five years from 1928. Vivid imaginations have been loosed, but the results make us pause and wonder.

Some mentioned a new campus located north of Florence with ten or twenty buildings. Others told of football championships won during the years following 1928. And still others gave large sums of money for the further growth of this institution. Some mentioned the need for airdromes and hangars for individual students planes. The need for a much larger campus than the ten acre one was also stressed.

These, of course, are highly imaginary, but still there are great possibilities in what was said. Someday . . . as the poet would say . . . we shall know.

It is not a question whether the old people are getting younger and younger, but are the young people getting older and older?

We are not here to make a living but a life.

WHAT WILL YOU DO?

Up in the art rooms one finds this motto—"No greater blessing than the artistic conscience can come to any worker in art, be he painter, sculptor, writer, or singer. Hold fast to it and it shall be your compass when the sun is darkened."

We are all artists in a sense. Everyone would do well to have the artistic conscience which bids them to do the best they can at all times and at all things.

It is a known fact that a thoroughly good workman is never a thoroughly unhappy man. Yet, the man or woman who is doing his work well is the one who can work and smile at the same time, no matter how small the task or how difficult or irksome it may be. It takes a pleasant smile and that artistic conscience plus downright stick-to-it-iveness to succeed.

The school year is well begun. The fun and newness of the first bit of work is over now. The real test has come. Will you buckle down and dig for success, or are you satisfied to stop with a good beginning, heedless of what the outcome may be or of how you may inconvenience the other fellow?

Do Today's duty; work.

Don't make excuses; make good!

"AVIGATION," A NEW WORD
(From the Century Magazine)

"Avigation," the newest of air words, is the science of determining one's position in the air by means of the stars and sun. Not more than that, it is a perfect example of flexibility in a living language. "Navigation of the air," the obvious root of the new word, was cumbersome and unwieldy. So to speed up the motion, someone hypothesized the words into more convenient compound "avigation." Finally, some genius saw a legitimate new word needed in the arsenal of an old one, stripped away all superfluous, and "avigation" leaped forth as a compact, philologically justifiable word for a new and very real thing.

One of the hardest things to believe is that an aviator can land on water as has been so often reported.

Mac's Mutterings

WE TOLD you that we had a real football team this year. Everyone, including that wee man Hollister, showed that we are headed for bigger and better things.

GREAT PROSPECTS cast equally great shadows ahead of them. That championship defeat will explain this bit of philosophy.

THAT'S ONE remark friend Plato overlooked.

EVEN THE weaker sex have gathered themselves together and formed a team.

WE EXPECT a large attendance at all of their games.

THEIR BIG worry right now is to get a date for that Christmas dance.

THEIR MOTTO is "Get your man and get him early" or some such.

MANY A shiek will be without a date if he forgets his camel.

WE MEAN something to ride—not smoke.

FOR FIRST class information on that topic "necking" we suggest the Bible class.

WE SEE that sleigh riding doesn't agree with Professor Logan.

OR MAYBE he doesn't agree with it—or this.

EXCHANGES

According to the Pasadena Chronicle of Pasadena, California, all fraternity and sorority members are to be expelled from the school because such organizations are illegal under the state law. This applies to the Pasadena Junior College.

From past issues of the Peru Pédagogian it is plainly seen that the Peru team consists of two big stars, namely Krejci and Hertz. They are chiefly responsible for Peru having that N. I. A. A. championship this season.

Top o' the World from Gunnison, Colo., announces that the school band is planning a red hot minstrel show. The show will take a trip but the membership for the journey is limited to 35 members.

Park College, Parkville, Mo., is holding a Peace Oratorical contest.

The Hastings Collegian proudly discloses the fact that their debate team recently had the honor of debating a team from Sidney, Australia, and defeating them.

The Bethany church, a meeting place for Cotner Collegians, was recently destroyed by fire.

The University Student of the Johnson Smith university of Charlotte, N. C., issued a Thanksgiving edition of eight pages.

York College of York, Nebr., has laid the foundation for a new gym. The men of the college are doing most of the work under the direction of Coach McCandless.

Bringing his audience a vivid description of his own thrilling experiences, Lowell Thomas, noted author, explorer, and lecturer, presented his illustrated lecture on "With Allenby in Palestine and Lawrence in Arabia" before 400 persons in the assembly auditorium Tuesday evening, Dec. 4.

A KNIGHT IN JUNE

Fire Fighter held the maiden in his arms while she wheeled out the customary sighs and then showed her that the rattle-snake was gone. "Haw, haw, haw," the maid giggled. "He reminds me of a first fire." Just then a band of sixty Indians was heard in the distance, playing "Our town will shine tonight." Fire Fighter whipped his horse into a gallop and shouted to the lady.

Food For Thought

A new discovery....By placing a can of canned heat in each of the pockets of an overcoat it has been found that the people suffering from the cold weather are able to keep warm.

A violent shaking of the cans, which is started automatically by running after the opposite sex or street cars, is continued as long as the person is in action. It is said to work well with nervous people.

This great discovery was made in the research laboratories of the Great University of Omaha, supervised by Miss Ward.

To obtain the best results, the cans should be set upright. It is hoped that this invention proves of value to humanity in eradicating infectious colds caught while studying or otherwise.

TOMORROW

This isn't a song of the future,

Nor is it a song of the past;

Nor even a song of the present.

As a song, it just simply lacks caste.

It's a paean of praise for Tomorrow,

Which ever emits a bright ray;

For, if it were not for Tomorrow,

I'd sure have to do things today.

JUST A FANCY

I do not care to see you,

When you call I am not home;

I do not care to talk with you,

When you 'phone I am not in;

I do not want to think of you,

So I read voraciously;

But you come and look over my shoulder,

For I hear your measured breathing,

So close that it stirs my hair.

Oh, why—why is it when I raise my eyes,

That I find—nothing—there?

WORK AND PLAY

W. J. Brennan

"I want him to know more than the mules," answered an old mule skinner in the Ozarks to the query as to why he was sending his son to school when in all probability the son would be a mule driver all his life and such occupation required little or none of the knowledge gained in books.

The old mule driver certainly hit the nail on the head when he wished his son to rise above his environment, he sounded a note that has been throbbing upon the keyboard of civilization since the beginning of time.

This intangible thing called education, coming from our schools, is not necessarily a knowledge of books; it is deeper than that.

It is an implement in the hands of the user to broaden his understanding and appreciation of the things he sees and uses about him; in short to better know and understand his mules.

The writer is of the opinion that this education process can best be accomplished by making the class-room part, the middle ring, or central attraction.

The National Education Association classifies as one of the seven cardinal objectives of an education, "The wise use of leisure."

Taken on the whole, college activities in a well-balanced institution just about represent that objective, putting into effect the old proverb, "All work and no play" and parallels the business man's golf or handball or what have you—the hobby, that semi-central thing in life that lets him forget his business and refreshes him in competition along different channels.

Certainly, properly directed activities outside class have the effect of broadening the intellect, lessening the social tendencies, and teaching the person to get away from himself. These are factors that go to make up one of the things in life for which all strive.

WHO'S WHO

ALICE MCCARTNEY

Head of Household Arts Department

Miss Alice McCartney, "the power behind the cafeteria," comes to the University of Omaha from Michigan. She is well prepared for her work at the university as domestic science instructor and supervisor of the cafeteria, and she holds a B. S. degree from Michigan State College, and an A. M. from the Teachers College, Columbia University.

When asked her hobby, Miss McCartney hesitated and then said, "I'm afraid I haven't any." However, she added that she enjoyed swimming and driving a car more than anything else. When the reporter inquired if she enjoyed cooking, she merely remarked that cooking was her business.

As a newcomer to the University of Omaha, Miss McCartney states that as yet she is not prepared to give an opinion as to the status of the university. She is enthusiastic about one department of the university, though, namely, the cafeteria. According to this lady in charge, the cafeteria is steadily forging ahead.

Finally, when Miss McCartney was asked the age-old question, "Is the way to a man's heart through his stomach?" she was almost noncommittal, saying only that she had not as yet had sufficient evidence to either prove or disprove that contention.

RADIO HOUR

The U. of O. Radio Hour, which is heard from W. O. W. every Friday evening from 8:35 to 9:05, last week featured Miss Knight, instructor in the art department of the university. Miss Knight discussed phases of commercial, educational, and civic art.

She explained the work of the Art Department of the University of Omaha, pointing out what is being done by the students in their work there. She also discussed the facilities for work and study in art in the city of Omaha.

Lyman Hoover At Monday Assembly

The Assembly Monday morning was addressed by Lyman Hoover, secretary of the Rocky Mountain region of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Hoover was introduced by Mr. Stevenson, state secretary, and a close friend.

His talk was on the subject of "The Abundance of Christian Living." He divided the abundance into three parts, a wider vision, a new fellowship, and added strength. Taking each division in turn he told how he and others who came into the Christian fellowship became interested in the whole world instead of their own little group or college.

His entire talk made the Christian life more vital and alive to all those who attended the assembly.

tion, "Is man a machine?" Both speakers presented their sides so forcefully and well that interest was sustained throughout.

Mr. Hogle, in opening the discussion, explained what he meant by a machine, and showed how, in his estimation at least, man was a machine. "There is," said Mr. Hogle, "no place in the scheme of things for anything like a soul."

In refutation of this statement, Mr. Guilfoil distinguished the soul as that vital force within the human being that makes him self-directing. "I am not," stated Mr. Guilfoil, "a mere ball struck by a gigantic 'Babe Ruth', incapable of directing my own course. My opponent may ask, what is a soul? I will describe it when he tells me the weight of Justice or the Shape of Charity."

Given No Decision

During the refutation, many good points were brought up by both speakers but as there was no decision the question remains unsettled, save in the minds of the hearers.

R-R-R-VENGE!

According to the prophecy made in a Public Speaking class the other day, the Freshmen in 1943 will be required to take an entrance exam with an average grade of 84 per cent. The faculty, too, will be required to take this exam but their average must be only 50 per cent. Needless to say, some bright Freshmen made this remark.

WITH THE FACULTY

Mr. Crenshaw, Bursar for the University of Omaha, was made a Notary Public for the state of Nebraska, October 26, 1928. He received this position upon presentation of a petition signed by twenty-six registered voters of Douglas County. The petition was presented to the Governor of Nebraska and a board of commissioners especially appointed for this purpose.

Professor Noel Logan of the Music Department has been suffering from a sprained ankle the past week. He slipped on the steps of his home Monday, Dec. 3rd. It has not been necessary for him to miss any classes.

Mrs. Leslie Johnson of the Rhetoric department was absent from the university on Dec. 3 on account of having the flu.

Dr. V. H. Vartanian addressed the Central Presbyterian Church of Des Moines, Ia., at the regular Sunday morning services on Dec. 2, telling of the present social, political, and religious conditions in the Near East.

A. J. Dunlap, dean of the College of Commerce, and official Father-Son poet, has written the poem which appears in the Christmas issue of both the Woodmen of the World paper and the organ of the Nebraska Children's Home Association.

After hearing the debate between F. K. Guilfoil and E. W. Hogle on the question, "Is man a machine?" Mr. Maya, popular instructor in Spanish, announces that he is still convinced that he is a machine.

Dr. V. H. Vartanian was called to Des Moines, Iowa, to give an address in the Central Presbyterian Church, one of the largest down town churches, on the subject, "Present Political, Social and Economic Conditions in the Near East," Sunday, Dec. 2. The occasion was to start a campaign of education and relief for the orphan children of the Bible Lands. The campaign will go on during the month of December, and Dr. Vartanian was called to give a similar address in the First Christian Church of Des Moines on Sunday, Dec. 9. This is the church in connection with Drake University and is considered the largest in the city, having a membership of 2,500.

Dr. E. W. Emery was back in his office Monday morning, December 9, following an illness of more than a week. He is back in full force and ready for work.

Hugh A. Myers addressed the American History Extension classes Monday evening, December 2, at 8:30 on the subject, "Virginia and Her Early Colonists," and "William and Mary College."

Art Department
Enters Work In Nebraska Exhibit

Keeping pace with the growth of the University of Omaha in all other lines, the art department is spreading their fame among the people of the city. Several of the students in this department have entered work in the Nebraska Artists Exhibit, which is being held in the Aquilla Court Building, December 5 to 30.

All work, which is shown in this exhibit, must first be judged by a jury, composed of out of state artists. This makes the showing of the various objects of art a somewhat difficult feat, as many things are turned away every year.

Miss Knight, instructor in the department, has entered two paintings, one oil and one water-color, and two etchings of her own in the exhibit. The students entering work are: Grace Harlan, three pictures; Christina Kullman, silver bracelet set with topaz; and Stella Adamson, silver pin set with opals.

Probe Scandal At
College of CommerceMembers Search for Misuser of Ballot—Twenty-one
Cast

An investigation into the last monthly election of the officers of the commercial club is being conducted by the members, and vigorous prosecution will be pressed against the member found guilty of misuse of the ballot.

Among the twenty-one ballots cast at this election, one was found which read as follows: "Never have I seen such an incapable field. Thumbs down on the whole gang." Nominees and their friends immediately took exception to the statement, and lead by Herbert Hudson, retiring president, are pushing the investigation with enthusiasm.

Mary McMonies, outstanding club worker, is heading the investigation as chief of detectives, and states that she already has several valuable clues which will undoubtedly lead to the capture of the guilty member. She is assisted in her work by Lloyd Smith, in the character of Prosecuting Attorney.

Byron Hewlett, although one of the nominees himself, has consented to forget the past and expedite the progress of justice, by serving as defense attorney for the yet unknown culprit.

Although Chief McMonies has not given to the reporters all the tips on which she is working, it is known that Bennie Huff, star quarterback, to whom the finger of suspicion pointed for a time, has practically cleared himself by producing a witness who saw him write his ballot.

The field has narrowed down to seven, and the club is expecting the capture of the guilty one very soon.

Y. W. NOTES

Vivian Krisel lead a discussion on prayer at the meeting of the Y. W. C. A. last Tuesday, Dec. 4, in the "Y" Room. There was a circle of prayer in which a number of the girls took part at the close, of which they all repeated the Lord's Prayer.

With this background there was an open discussion on the value of prayer, and arguments were presented for and against public prayer. Prayer was defined as praise, petition, loving others before God, and communion.

It was announced that all of the girls will have a Christmas dinner together in the cafeteria at noon, Monday, Dec. 17. Maxine Delaven and Mabel Shively have full charge of all arrangements.

The last day of school, the Y. W. C. A. will sponsor a Christmas dinner for all the girls of the University of Omaha. It will cost you only twenty-five cents for a dinner of meat loaf, mashed potatoes, gravy, ice cream and wafers. Besides there will be lots of fun and fellowship. Mabel Shively and Maxine Delaven are in full charge of all the arrangements. There will be a special table in the Magazine Room adjoining the Cafeteria for the party of girls. Come and wish every one a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Y NOTES

Oliver Hasselblad was elected vice-president at the weekly Y. M. C. A. meeting held on December 4, in the Y Den. Attention was called to the new Y Den sign at the entrance of the gymnasium.

Great magical mysteries by Herbert Fischer featured the Y. M. C. A. meeting held in the "Y" Den on November 27. "How did he do it," "Where did they do," and other such expressions of surprise were heard during the performance. The lovers' knot, of which only those who knew the combination could be freed, was greatly appreciated.

Making torn paper whole was another clever trick of the magician. A puzzling card trick was next demonstrated in which the performer passed cards from his left hand to his right trousers' pocket with no visible motion of his arm. This was followed by another equally interesting card trick in which two cards selected by members of the audience were made to pass from one sealed envelope to another.

As Don Butler turned to sit down after he had assisted during the last trick, Mr. Fischer grabbed him by the coat and pulled a long strip of colored ribbons out at the back, to the great amusement of everyone.

All during the performance, "Herb" kept up a rapid stream of witticisms to the great delight of his audience.

A valiant group of students came out at seven o'clock Thanksgiving morning to the service sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. The hill at Kansas Ave. and 30th St., overlooking Miller Park and farther east to the Missouri River was the scene of the Retreat.

Linda Bradley led the discussion. First the group silently considered what each had to thank for. After sharing their thoughts with the others, they spent the rest of the hour thinking how they could best show their thanks. All came to the realization that they could not begin to enumerate their blessings or even imagine them. All agreed that the hour was well spent and well worth the effort used in coming.

have out a dear one. There must be something more than a mechanism included in that child.

Lack Initiative

Said Dr. Vartanian, "It is certain that a machine does not have personality, ego and self-consciousness. All these a man has, he can project out of himself and then reflect back. Mr. Darrow himself has personality, he couldn't say that he would transport himself from Chicago to Omaha to this debate if he were merely a machine."

According to statements made in the discussion, science itself does not demand understanding of a principle to accept it. On the surface of things the earth looks flat but we know that this is not true. In a like manner, we cannot see a soul, but we know that it is here, a vital force.

Class in Speaking
Gives PropheciesLarge Money Donations Given
By the Assembled
Alumni

Great things are ahead of the students of this university and the institution itself according to the youthful prophecies made by the speakers in the Public Speaking classes under the supervision of Professor F. K. Guilfoil. The occasion is the forty-first annual meeting of the National Association of alumni of the University of Omaha at a banquet in Chicago. Reverend, Doctor, Lawyer, etc. Guilfoil is the honored chairman and toastmaster.

"You will recall," recites Coach Barber, "That since way back in 1928, the football spirit at the old school grew and grew, and today we are members of what formerly used to be known as the Big Ten. It is now called the Big Eleven, and might I add that because we defeated the University of Chicago this afternoon we are again champions of this conference."

Quiskenberry Raves

"I am now a rich man," raves Professor Quiskenberry who is also a Coach, "and I am going to show my appreciation of the U. of O. by starting a fund for erecting a new building. My donation is $10,000."

"You will remember," solemnly declares Hon. Fred Peirce, secretary of the National Alumni Association, "that our famed editor of the Gateway is now editor of the Atlantic Monthly, which proves that one can have a career, a home, and a husband at the same time."

"Dear old class of '31," sobs Dr. Jensen, "Always have faith, I did and look where I am."

June Pickard, Governess of Nebraska, speaks a few words to the assembly on annulling the Prohibition Act.

Dr. Styski, who is also a great criminal lawyer, gives a brief summary of how he defended Kid (Slippery) Woerner for having stolen the funds of the Omaha Community Chest. Slippery is in jail and cannot be toastmaster.

Toastmaster Guilfoil tells another Scotch joke and now, dear children, the class is dismissed for the day.

A very popular young Kappa pledge is known to have recently pulled straws to decide a very important issue—just about that important.

The daily famous re-acting of that play "Romeo and Juliet" in the gym by a well-known Phi Sig and a petite Pi O pledge was sadly interrupted the other day when the boys started playing basketball.

It is rumored that "Mutt" Mennie has discovered a new Mama.

The fight for supremacy in the Hash House has left the Queen (?) in such a state of perplexity that she fears total dissolution among her subjects.

"Walter Camp" Van Dyke, after much meditation, has finally published his All-American football team, much to the delight of the players and general disgust of the entire student body.

Paul Fay, petite Theta pledge and self-styled heart breaker, has openly declared war on the young man who dated Marg Addy (herself) to the O Dix dance last week, namely Mr. Willie Hill.

Mr. S. A. Rice, Wymore, Nebraska, stopped in to see the "old building", 1307 Farnam Street, where he learned the drug store business in 1897.

When he left in 1891, the Omaha Bee building was just under construction. Mr. Rice says Omaha has changed considerably including the Farnam hill which has been graded since he was last in Omaha.

SPORTTUTORIAL

DOES VICTORY ALWAYS PAY?

Since time began no victor has ever been victorious. Victory and defeat are but figures of speech," writes Glenn Frank, President of the University of Wisconsin and former Editor of the Century Magazine. And he continues, "The loser becomes like the winner and the winner like the loser."

In explanation President Frank, nationally known educator, shows how the winner and the loser each assimilates the characteristics of the other. This is in itself a helpful and optimistic viewpoint. The cardinal eleven lost their last two games on the home field, and these were their only home losses of the season. True, our players were greatly outweighed by both opposing teams who were more experienced, too, yet there is a reason for everything.

The U. of O. football men, no doubt, profited so greatly and in so many ways which we need not mention that they can come back next year with an even greater team.

WHOOPEE!!!

Have you seen the gang out there on the floor chasing the apple around? Have you noticed the various suits which cover their strong young bodies? Have you ever stopped to think that those suits represent a collection of players from almost every part of the United States? Think of it. Stars from every part of this sport-loving country.

Every one of those fellows is out to display his skill in the gentle art of manipulating the pill through the basket for the glory of the U. of O. A heavy schedule is ahead of the team and if they display the same pep and scrap that the football team did this season we can surely look forward to some real hot games.

And another thing! You cookie-pushing rooters! If you thought it was too cold for you to watch the football games, just try and pull that excuse for staying away from these basketball games! We guarantee special electric foot-warmers for you cold-blooded athletes who haven't enough pep to even go out and put on a suit.

Now don't go and get mad. All we're trying to do is to get you out to see those basketball games. Will you be there or not?

GO TO THE ORPHANUM

Visit the Orphanum. That seems to be the policy of all the sports followers at the U. of O., judging from the number that are going to the Orphanum. Just come for this can be seen in the fact that the whole football squad were guests of the Orphanum at a party given in their honor on Thursday. If the Orphanum is to be the place to meet the athletic teams and the university we should be able to back that management. Let's all go to the

"I'm not going to step out with that any more,"

"How come?"

"She didn't love me to her wedding."

Bum and Bummer Pick All-Conference Team

The team.
Mennie, Merle—Center.

Trility, Fred—Right End.
Cathers, Happy—Quarterback.
Hinzie, Warren—Fullback.
Truesdale, Frank (C)—Right Half.

DONE EXCLUSIVELY FOR THE GATEWAY

In picking the all-conference team we had in mind those persons who have more exhibited those qualities which best entitle them to places, based on their conflag and "in conference" abilities.

We have tried to accomplish our stupendous task with absolute impartiality, and, with recognition of our fair and unbiased selections, we feel that none of those whose names conditions have forced us to omit, will protest.

As to the team itself, we feel that we have chosen a forward line of immovable strength—a veritably stone wall from the ears up. Offensively (oh, how offensive) the line has sufficient beef and bone to plow through anything.

Biologically, the line is a picture of physical perfection. Religiously they are terrible. In Psychology they are dumb too.

Ethically the line ranks fair. Mennie's condition in this subject somewhat weakens the gang, but his ability to pass the Ball (?) makes up for this delinquency.

As to the backfield—they speak for themselves (continually). Suffice it to say, they are ready to plunge into any thing, conversation or matrimony.

The players, as individuals are pretty good as a whole. Brother Melcher can well explain how he came to be awarded this position of left end. We pick Corrine Jensen at tackle because we can think of no body else who would look so well in a football suit. (Captain Barber has put his O. K. on this selection.)

Wilson, because of his speed and bone structure earns a berth at left guard. Mennie at center has proven himself to be a tower of strength—his fiendish laugh has won many a game.

We place Fay at right guard because he knows his hands. (See cheer leading display.) Hill has ever exhibited a rare ability to play all around every opponent who ever faced him. Trility wins a place at right end simply (?)—because his peaceful demeanor has lulled many an opposing team to sleep.

Happy Cathers wins the call for quarterback because of her rare ability to handle men and because that position is the noisiest on the team. (She said she wouldn't accept if she couldn't play there.)

Hinzie wins the fullback honors. Casey's bulk and Bull-dog tenacity coupled with his fine tenor renditions made him a line smashing fool. Kavorik is placed at left half. Being short one head-gear on the squad, Kavorik's derby won him his position. We made Truesdale a halfback because it is impossible for us to imagine him as a whole anything. We hand him the Captaincy because he has always shown a disposition to run things anyway.

We feel that this is a wonderful team. With their line, how could they lose?

Irresponsibly yours,
Bum and Bummer.

FREDDY SQUEAKS

An Englishman and an American were discussing the relative merits of the youth of their respective countries. The American insisted that the average American boy was smarter than the English. To settle the argument, he suggested that they go out and ask the first newsie they saw what time it was by his nose. They did, and he only looked up at them with his mouth open and blank expression on his face. So they journeyed over to America and the first thing they met on the dock was an American newsboy. The American said, "Newsie, what time is it by your nose?" He looked up with a pert expression and said, "Ask yer own. Mine ain't running." Well, lingers, we may not be newsies, but our respective noses surely are running, are they not? But listen, my children, and you shall hear the remedy for red noses. Take one old pair of glasses, suspend from each side of rim a wire passing under the aforementioned nose. This wire holds in place a small tin cup which can be easily emptied when full. (Of what, Paul? It is past time for you to go to bed. Now, run along.) And—when you find yourself in the embarrassing position of having a cold and of having forgotten to bring any handkerchiefs, let me suggest that shirt-tails are an excellent substitute. After all, athletics are a fine thing especially when our noses participate. Well, they do! They play on the basketball team—and dribble; and are out for the track team because they run. Adios, hasta manana.

FREDDY.

GOOD SPORTS

(Taken from the Creightonian, published at Creighton University, on Thanksgiving Day.)

We're with you, Creighton. Put 'er there!

"Omaha University has just celebrated its homecoming, and across some thirty blocks of intervening buildings, the congratulating hand of Creighton university and her students reaches with a sincere and hearty clasp.

"Beginning not many years ago with a small student body, weathering the biting storms of criticism from without and, at times, turmoil from within, Omaha University consistently maintained her high scholastic standing, and slowly, surely forged her way into greater worth and prominence in every other field it entered. This year another milestone was reached when a fighting, red-shirted squad of about a score of men demonstrated their superiority over most football teams in their class.

"For all of these things Creighton congratulates her sister university, and we, as Creighton men, hail the dawn of a still greater Omaha University, and announce that we are proud to have her with us in the field, to keep up the fight, to make of our youth a finer and worthier group of citizens."

what crushed and class-ridden brother. His part was very well done, and in the spirit of the situation.

The parts of Mr. and Mrs. Thayer, as played by Miss Margaret Cathers and Mr. Victor Simceck, displayed splendid interpretation in their scenes together and gave to the production a delightful bit of domesticity. Mr. Simceck made of Mr. Thayer the meek, henpecked man the plot called for.

Tom Gibney, as Norwood Woerner interpreted him, lent comedy and color to the action during the entire time he was on the stage.

Credit should be given to the orchestra which played at their initial performance for this play. It showed progress and promised to be a great help in all future productions.

Miss Barbara Dallas and the group of tap-dancers who entertained between acts were well received by the audience and did their part in making the whole performance a success.

On the whole the performance was one worthy of notice anywhere for the excellence of the acting and the homely common sense displayed in the lines.
